Coming to Town

Robert Pike, President of the Columbia School of Aeronautics at Vancouver, is making a tour of the Western Provinces for the purpose of contacting those who have written the school, and to select suitable applicants for aviation training, before the Trans-Canada mails open. All applicants who are chosen will receive their first lesson in the air in the Waco bi-plane piloted by Eric DePencier. After completing their theoretical training at home, successful students will have their railway fare furnished to Vancouver, in order that they might continue their practical training in the shops at Vancouver City Airport. Columbia School of Aeronautics operates the largest aviation-training institute in Canada, and is fully equipped to train both pilots and air engineers.

A complete motion picture of airline and training school operations may be viewed without obligation by arranging an appointment through this paper in advance. Parents of air-minded sons are especially requested to look into the openings available, and qualifications required in the various branches of aeronautics, before deciding upon any one branch. Mr. Pike, possibly the youngest aviation executive in Canada, emphasizes the importance of young men finding their vocation early in life and devoting their energy along the most profitable lines. He claims that the aircraft industry offers greater opportunities to young ambitious men than any other industry in Canada at the present time, and for some considerable time in the future.

Papers all over Canada have it correct that the houses operated on Hill Sixty, between Blairmore and Frank, are being conducted with the full knowledge and promised protection of the mayor and council of Blairmore. In fact, they stand there as probably the most prominent monument to the present council. It is possible, of course, that members of the present town fathers are not drawing revenue from them.

A boxing contest, sponsored by the Hillcrest Miners' Literary and Athletic Association, is to be staged in Cole's theatre at Hillcrest on the afternoon of Thursday, December the 26th. The main bout, between "Gentleman" Jack Jones, of Hillcrest, and Bill Matynke, of Calgary, will be preceded by three good preliminaries, starting at 3 o'clock. D. Lewis, of Blairmore, will referee the main bout.

Hyojito Uyehara, aged 84, better known as "Billy the Jap," passed away in Edmonton on November the 27th. Billy and his wife were real old-timers in the west. They resided in California for a number of years, where they made their fortune. In 1899 they came to Nelson from Spokane by sleigh team, before the railroad was built. About twenty-six years ago they moved to Fernie, where they resided until about a year ago, when they moved to Edmonton. Billy was very fond of card playing, and lost most of his stake to the famous "honest" gamblers at Blairmore and Fernie.

MINE ACCIDENT AT COALHURST

Sixteen miners were instantly killed when an explosion occurred at the Lethbridge Collieries' mine at Coalhurst on Monday afternoon. The men were just going in on the afternoon shift. The sixteen were hit by the full force of air and flames and had no chance of escape whatever. All the bodies were recovered inside of a few hours.

The dead are: M. Kallak, married; K. Zmurchuk, widower; James Workman, widower; E. Williams, married, two children; A. Erniacora, married; L. Gosul, single; A. Gresyl, married, one son; Bill Lukas, married, five children; A. Simcone, single; John Cook, married, five children; A. Prokop, married, two children; E. Rota, married, one child; Louis Gresyl, married, two children; Fritz Gresyl, married, one child; Harry Duggan, married, two children; J. Sarog, married.

Fritz, Louis and A. Gresyl were brothers.

Three others are being treated in hospital for injuries. They were injured by debris when coming off shift. An inquest has been ordered.

The remains of the victims will be laid to rest tomorrow.

HOME LEAGUE CHRISTMAS SALE HELD

The newly organized Home League of the Salvation Army was greatly encouraged by the results of their Christmas sale. For the past three months the ladies have worked hard under the leadership of Mrs. Rhodes, our Home League secretary. We would like through the medium of The Enterprise to thank all those who helped in any way to make this first peak in the Anglican church tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody welcome. Silver collection.

An item in our last issue, worded: "It may not be possible for an auditor to detect where Blairmore town funds have been misappropriated, but the department of municipal affairs should make an effort to find out, in order to quell persistent rumors," was not intended to in any way reflect upon the honesty and integrity of our present secretary-treasurer, but to help draw attention of the proper authorities and the ratepayers to the fact that town funds are being mis-spent. The term "mis-spent" was intended to be used instead of the term "mis-appropriated." That trip of the mayor's to Toronto as an example. Mayor Knight will have a heck of a time satisfying the ratepayers that the funds supplied from the town's coffers to be thrown away in the interest of a "movement" far from the duties of the council were funds legally spent. Anti-war or anti-Fascism are not mentioned in the town's curriculum. And, of course, if the aldermanic heads choose to throw away our funds, the secretary is in no way to blame. In the above-mentioned item, we did not mean to infer that the secretary would ever attempt to cover up any of the council's doings so as to escape the notice of an auditor. In the public's opinion, the work of Mr. Larvalter is being performed in an honest and capable manner, which could scarcely have been said of some of his predecessors in that office. No doubt the auditor would take exception to the term "misappropriated," which practically has the same meaning as "mis-spent," and under what heading can a mis-spent item appear in an auditor's report?

It is still "seven minutes past seven" by the clock on the notorious Neon advertising sign on the main street of Blairmore. And for about six months only a small portion of the sign has been lighted. It is particularly noticeable that certain of the "Red" portions are getting the juice.

INSPECTOR McDONALD ON SAFETY LAMPS

Fernie Rotarians, at a recent luncheon, learned a lot about mine safety lamps that they never knew before, when they were addressed on the subject by District Mines Inspector John McDonald.

He opened his remarks with an outline of the early history of coal mining. While there was evidence to prove that the Romans knew something about burning coal in their early invasion of Britain and that certain early monks also had a limited knowledge of coal mining, it was not until the thirteenth century that coal was mined for fuel.

At first the mining was all done from outcroppings along river banks where the streams had exposed seams, but the depth of the mines were limited to tunnels that could only be worked as far in as the day light would permit miners to see to work.

This was, of course, a great handicap as the available mining area soon became exhausted. Many were the schemes used to bring light to the working face. Bright fish scales were dumped liberally about and helped to a certain extent, the tallow dip and later the candle was used, but owing to escaping gas from the face the latter two were very dangerous. It was not until about 1812 or 13 that any real attempt at a safety lamp was devised. Sir Humphrey Davie was the first man to introduce a lamp for this purpose and it gave such a poor light that it was not of great assistance to the miners. The Davie lamp was followed by the claney and later by the bonnetted claney, which gave more light and much safer than the Davie light. These lamps were used until about 30 years ago and were in use at Coal Creek at the time of the last explosion.

Shortly after that a German invented a lamp known as the Wolf lamp, which gave more than double the light thrown by anything previously used in mining and at the same time was considered much safer in gas than the Bonnetted Claney. It was not until 1911 that Thomas Edison took up the matter of an electric safety lamp for coal mines. His first invention was a two candle power light and this he rapidly improved upon until he produced one of 500 candle power. This nearly all the up-to-date mines of the world have adopted and has proved itself one of the greatest safety devices known to the coal mining business. Its only deficiency is that it does not show gas and it is necessary for mine safety officials to each carry one of the old Wolf lamps or a Claney to detect gas.

Mr. McDonald had all of the safety lamps used in the last hundred years on exhibition and explained their use. His talk was one of the most interesting that has been heard at the Rotary for some time.—Fernie Free Press.

No explanation is given regarding a package of blank bank cheques received by us through the mail last week end. We take it for granted they are to be distributed around town, so are sending one to every person 21 years or over. They may fill them out and sign them, and if they have enough funds in the bank may cash them as their first dividend. For their second dividend they'll have to provide their own paper.

Police recently raided Communist quarters at Nelson, B.C., where they confiscated literature, pamphlets, books, personal correspondence, etc. Raids were also made on quarters operated at Creston, Canyon, Camp Lister, Wyndell and other points. One Archie Mornchuk, a Russian whose domicile is anywhere, and who was recently sent to jail on the charge of vagrancy, is looked upon as the king-pin of the gang in the Kootenay district.

DEATH OF MRS. GUITARD

There passed away at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Matt Wood, at Lundbreck, on Saturday last, one of the oldest residents of the North Fork country in the person of Mrs. Guitard.

Mr. and Mrs. Guitard and their sons and daughter came west to the Walrond Ranch some 46 years ago from Montreal. Quite a number of years ago they took up a ranch on the Livingstone river, some twelve miles from The Gap, where they specialized in polo ponies and cattle. Mr. Guitard predeceased his wife in 1916.

Mrs. Guitard had lately been on a visit to friends at Hillcrest, and while there was under the care of Dr. Rose.

The remains were laid to rest in the family plot in the Livingstone cemetery on Monday afternoon, with Rev. Mr. Jeffcott, of Fincher Creek, officiating. Mr. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Undertaking Parlor, Blairmore, was in charge of funeral arrangements. A large turnout of clippers paid their last respects and many tokens of flowers showed the esteem in which she was held. Pall bearers were Ed. LaBrie, Jack Hayes, Percy Rhodes, Wal Eddy, Jack Graham and Ted Crayford.

Mr. Sydney Guitard, only son, came down from Olds to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Guitard was in her 73rd year, and was active until a very short time of her death.

The annual Christmas dance, under auspices of the Lundbreck Hall Association, will be held in the Lundbreck hall on the night of Friday, December the 27th.

WORLD HAPPENINGS
BRIEFLY TOLD

Admiral Sir Roger Keyes, member of parliament and naval hero of the Great War, demanded that the British navy be made supreme in the world.

Officials at the Zeppelin works in Friedrichshafen, Germany, have announced the new dirigible L-129 will be ready for trial flights early next year.

Exchange of a house for a postage stamp has been disclosed. B. C. Berger, Seattle, traded the stamp, of an 1868 Canadian issue valued at about $500, for a small house and lot.

Exports of Canadian bacon during the first nine months of 1935 totalled nearly 100,000,000 pounds with a value of $15,756,171, a gain of about one million dollars over the same period of 1934.

Pretending to be in dire poverty and living in a drab cottage had neither electricity, gas nor other improvements, Mrs. Ellen J. Ackerman, who died in New York on Nov. 20, left a hoarded fortune of $200,000.

Anxious to register so that they will be eligible for the Social Credit dividend of $25 per month if and when it is granted, scores of single jobless men from all parts of Canada are drifting into the cities of Calgary and Edmonton daily.

President Roosevelt has formally proclaimed the reciprocal trade treaty between the United States and Canada to become effective Jan. 1. The president also proclaimed the treaty between the United States and Brazil.

Carl Janssen, who professes to have introduced stop-and-go lights in England, appeared at the Thames police court, London, accused of having failed to observe stop-and-go lights. Despite a plausible excuse, he was forced to pay $2.50.

William Brown, of Deloraine, Man., president of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, has been re-elected director of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. It was announced John Richards, Jr., of Red Deer, Alta., was elected director for Alberta and British Columbia.

Praises Trade Treaty

Step-In Right Direction Says Sir Edward Beatty

Commendation of the Canada-United States reciprocal trade treaty was voiced at Thorold, Ont., by Sir Edward Beatty, K.C., who returned to his home-town to address the annual dinner of the Thorold Board of Trade.

"The new trade agreement is a step in the right direction," declared the president of the Canadian Pacific Railways in a postscript to his address.

Increased trade and postponement of large public works where the cost was disproportionate to the direct stimulus given employment were cited as essentials to complete recovery in Canada. Later he said: "I never could see the virtue of trying to destroy because we have found defects in our system. There is no reason to burn down the house because there are a few cockroaches in the cellar."

Mail Was Delayed

Letters Shipped Behind Post Boxes 32 Years Ago

The postal service of Fort Worth, Texas, is pretty efficient, but it has just finished a delivery that was 32 years late. Some letters had slipped down between crevices of old-time rent boxes in the old post-office. Some were so tight that they crumbled to bits between the fingers of workmen who were replacing the boxes. But the mail must go through. All that still retained their form were delivered. New boxes eliminate a possibility of the incident's happening again.

Disobeyed Orders

A hired man disobeyed orders and 663 pigs, owned by J. H. Parsons and valued at $600, went to a watery grave in Seven Persons Creek, Alta. The porkers plunged under a hole and went down stream under the ice. The hired man was ordered to chop a hole near the shore. Instead, he went to the centre of the stream.

Utopia Is In Tonga Islands

Island Has No Unemployment And A Smooth Functioning Legislature

A picturesque Pacific island where there is no income tax. Nobody is without property. There are no poor. Nobody is illiterate.

There is a simplified smooth-functioning legislature. It is the island of Tonga, and its Crown Prince Taufa'ahau, when visiting Melbourne, Australia, for Methodist church centenary, has been telling about it.

Every boy on attaining the age of 16 is given a grant of 8½ acres of land and a village home, in other words the means to make a living among his 30,000 fellow islanders.

In place of income tax, a payment of $10 a year is levied on every male adult, and this entitles him to free medical, dental and hospital treatment for himself and his family. To augment the revenue, there are customs duties and a tax on motor cars. There are free primary schools and two colleges.

Prince Taufa'ahau, not yet 18, is more than six feet tall, and has already won distinction as a hurdler, weight putter and footballer. He is studying law.

Medical Science In Russia

Standard Is High Opinion Of Sir Frederick Banting

High praise for the standards of medical science in Russia was uttered by Sir Frederick Banting, discoverer of insulin, in an address before the Hamilton, Ont., Health Association.

So intensively and efficiently had the nation tackled the problem of tuberculosis, said Sir Frederick, that one hardly ever saw or heard of a bedridden tuberculosis patient in Russia.

"Of course," he said, "their problems are not ours." They tackled the disease much earlier. The workers are examined by their factory or trade union doctors and sent to institutions as soon as signs of tuberculosis develop. The result is that you can see a case that requires bed treatment.

Sir Frederick, who returned recently from a trip to Russia, also said medical science was keeping pace with civilization. It was not enough to fight disease when it came, but medical science must fight also to prevent it.

Naturalists Baffled

Many Birds' Strangings Are On This Strange Specimen

Mother Nature got all tangled up, sportsmen believed, after viewing a strange bird which has naturalists from Lewiston, Idaho, baffled. The mysterious bird of many colors, a hen, bears the markings of a China pheasant, a blue grouse and a bronze domestic turkey. It is twice as large as a fallow pheasant. The tail is rounded and stunted, like that of a turkey. Around the eye there is the scarlet mark of the pheasant rooster and the back and wings bear the mark of the Oriental bird. The feathered legs and lower breast are marked like the grouse and the bronze and bars of the gobbler appear on the tail feathers.

Bottle Crosses, The Ocean

Dropped Overboard South Of Newfoundland Was Found In Scotland

A bottle has crossed the Atlantic after a "voyage" of nine months. It was found on the coast of North Uist, in the Hebrides, Scotland, by Malcolm Robertson, of Lochmaddy. A message inside asked the finder to communicate with the town hall at Havre and stated a reward would be forthcoming. Officials there have just received a letter from Mr. Robertson. The message said the bottle was thrown into the sea from the liner Lafayette south of the Newfoundland Banks on Jan. 22, 1935.

Elastic Safety Curb

An "elastic" barrier or curb is being tried out at a bend on a steep hill near Frankfurt-on-Main in Germany, to protect motorists from going over the edge. Two steel ropes are stretched at the height of a car's wheels along the dangerous side of the road and are fastened to iron posts at either end by wire springs. It is claimed that this elastic fence will guide a motor car back to the road if, in rounding the bend, it should go too near the edge.

New Needlework For Your Home

Here's a new needlework pattern that will stand you in good stead both before and after Christmas. Right now, one square knitted in string would make a lovely insertion for a pillow or scarf. Two, joined together, make a dollie. An edging is given to finish the pieces. Then after Christmas, plan to make a bedspread or dinner cloth—you'll find the squares make fine pick-up work. The lace openwork sets off very effectively an attractive star pattern.

In pattern 5494 you will find complete instructions for making the square and joining it to make a variety of articles; an illustration of it and of all stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or cash (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 173 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

There is no Alice Brooks pattern book published

Received Special Permit

Tower On University Of London 210 Feet High

The tower that will dominate the new buildings of the University of London in Bloomsbury, England, will be 210 feet high, 40 feet higher than Nelson's Column in Trafalgar Square, but not the highest structure in London. The Big Ben tower on the houses of parliament is 320 feet high. Yet by London standards the university tower will be something of a skyscraper, and the view from its roof should be magnificent.

Special sanction has been received by the university authorities from the London county council for the erection of a building above the limit of from 80 feet to 100 feet, prescribed under the London Building Amendment Act of this year. Work on the base of the tower has been begun, but the whole structure may not be completed until 1937.

The tower will have eight storeys, several of which will be used for storing books for the library. The library will be in the base.

Lloyds Granted Charter

Famous English Insurance Firm Will Operate In Alberta

Lloyds of London, famous insurance firm, has been granted a charter to operate in Alberta under an order approved by the provincial cabinet.

The permission was refused when application was first made last year to the U.P.A. government. At that time, insurance men in the province protested that no bond would have to be posted by Lloyds. The British company will not establish a branch at Edmonton, but will deal through agencies already established, it was stated.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

EZRA TEACHING THE LAW OF GOD

Golden text: Thy word have I laid up in my heart, Psalm 119:11. Lesson: Ezra 7:10; Nehemiah, Chapter 8. Devotional reading: Hebrews 10: 19-27.

Explanations And Comments

Ezra's Great Desire to Teach the Law of God, Ezra 7:10. Ezra's primary motive, as we saw two weeks ago, in coming to Jerusalem from Persia was to see the law more strictly observed by his countrymen.

The reading of the Law, Nehemiah 8:1-8. The first day of the seventh month is the day which the Jews celebrate as their New Year's Day. On this day in Old Testament times occurred the festival known as the Feast of Trumpets, which was observed with special rites. On this day in the year 445 B.C., the people of Jerusalem assembled in the broad place before the water gate. The streets of Jerusalem were very narrow, just as they are to-day, most of them resembling an alley more than a street. The only spot where a large crowd could assemble would be the broad place, or open square or else the city walls. The water gate was the gate through which the water carriers entered the city with their water from Gihon, or the Virgin's Spring as it is now called.

To that assembly of men and women and such children as could understand, Ezra the priest read and wrote the Book of the Law of Moses. Of just what this book consisted is a disputed question among scholars; the entire Pentateuch, some believe; only the legislative portion of the Pentateuch, others maintain. It read from early morning till midday—on account of the heat they had their customary rest during the noon hour—and all were attentive listeners.

The People Comforted, Neh. 8:9-12. Nehemiah the governor now comes into the story. He and Ezra and the Levites comforted the people, saying, "This day is holy unto Jehovah your God; mourn not, weep." The day was holy because it was the time of the new moon and of the blowing of trumpets (Lev. 23:24) and also because of the reading of the Law. Then he, either Nehemiah or Ezra, counselled them to go their way, eat the fat and drink the sweet (using a proverbial expression meaning, Do not fast nor mourn), and portions to those for whom nothing was prepared. "Come, eat the dainty pieces and drink sweet wine, and send a portion to him who has nothing ready," is Moffatt's translation.

Death Defying Dive

Ability To Judge A 45-Degree Angle Saves His Life

Red Brady, a recent visitor to Halifax, N.S., never studied geometry, but he says he owes his life to his ability to judge a 45-degree angle. He makes his living by diving 110 feet into five feet of water.

Brady studies his degrees and distances like a professor of mathematics. The tank into which he plunges is 15 feet across and contains five feet of water. His diving tower is 110 feet high. When he climbs to the topmost platform, he has these dimensions in mind. Then he tests the direction of the wind, if it is negligible he forgets it; if it is blowing, he makes a mental estimate of the slight sideways it may give to his falling body. Finally he braces his feet, pauses, and falls forward and down—in a dive that never carries him more than three and one-half feet below the surface.

At night his dives are even more spectacular, because he ties a piece of gasoline-soaked waste to his back. Brady knows that if he miscalculates by as much as 10 degrees, he may never dive again, but he believes that his excellent physical condition will keep him accurate. He doesn't smoke, doesn't drink alcohol, tea or coffee, and never goes to parties.

Educational Worker

Late Edward Best Graduated At Age Of 72

Edward E. Best, for 47 years an educational worker in Manitoba, is dead, aged 83.

Born in Ireland, Mr. Best came to Canada as a child and lived in Ontario until he came to Manitoba as a school teacher in 1881. For many years he was an inspector of schools.

A little more than 12 years ago Mr. Best determined to take a college degree and commenced study at the University of Manitoba, graduating as a B.A. at the age of 72.

A son, Ernest E. Best, is general secretary of the Y.M.C.A. for Canada and is well known in Winnipeg, Regina and other western cities.

Scheme Did Not Work

Cleveland police were talking about a worried motorist who parked his car in a forbidden spot and left a note on the windshield. "Do not leave ticket; back in 10 minutes."

When the motorist returned, he found this reply: "Sorry—couldn't wait." There was also a ticket.

An Unscientific Storm

Weather Bureau Experts Were Puzzled By Freak Hurricane

Like men sitting on top of a rumbling volcano, citizens of Nassau, Bahamas, waited last November 8. Seventy miles north, a hurricane had whipped across the sea from Bermuda, and was on its way south. By morning, said Grady Norton, of the United States Weather Bureau, Nassau would get "a pretty good wallop."

Miles westward the same day, in Miami, Florida, said the Associated Press, "the sun was shining brightly . . . and a mild wind was blowing." The next afternoon, not Nassau, but Miami, received the wallop.

Suddenly changing the course predicted by the weather bureau, the storm veered into the Florida peninsula after one o'clock, leveling houses, tossing boats up on land, and snarling telephone wires. After a short lull it smashed again, piling wreckage high, killing seven persons, injuring scores.

Chief among those "tearing their hair" after the storm, were Weather Bureau meteorologists, whose calculations have been upset twice in the last three months. The storm "had about much regard for the traditional hurricane route as an American auto-driver who insists on driving on the left hand side of the street," said the United Press describing an interview with I. R. Tannehill, of the Weather Bureau.

When the storm, which the weather bureau called the latest "storm" not just another hurricane, but a freak of Nature so unprecedented as to set the scientific world agog.

Bacon Exports Up A Million Dollars

Has Made Strides In Meeting Competition On The British Market

Canada's exports of bacon during the first nine months of 1935 show a gain of about one million dollars over the same period of 1934.

Exports of Canadian bacon to the end of September totalled nearly 100,000,000 pounds, which took 94,550,000 pounds compared with 94,286,700 pounds valued at $14,872,331 in the first nine months of 1934. This increase, amounting to 5,153,500 pounds in volume, was mostly all in the British market, which took 94,550,000 pounds or 99.4 per cent of the Dominion's total export.

Canadian bacon entering the British market is sold in competition with the world's best, and in the comparatively short period of four years Canada's position as an exporter of bacon to Great Britain has advanced from ninth place in 1931 to second place in 1934. In addition to supplying the British market with such a large quantity, Canada this year exported bacon to fifteen other countries, including the United States, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the different portions of the British West Indies, the French West Indies, the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon, Japan, China, Fiji, Colombia, Peru and Alaska.

Domestic Court For Navy

Established To Settle Marriage Troubles Of British Sailors

The British navy is to have a "domestic court" to aid naval ratings who need advice or assistance for the well-being of their families and to settle any domestic troubles that may arise.

This decision is announced in Fleet Orders, just issued. Three women have already been appointed to assist in this work and have begun their duties.

Officially, "domestic courts" are called the Welfare and Marriage Allowance section.

The "courts" are to be established in naval barracks at each of the three home ports, Portsmouth, Devonport and Chatham.

Rat Plague In Rumania

Bucharest is in search of a piper piot to put an end to the rat plague which is threatening public health. Packs of rats have crested the river Danister from Russia and have now invaded Rumania, including the capital. The ministry of public health has taken measures to destroy the pest, but the result has been ill.

At night, pedestrians walking on Calce Victoriei, Bucharest's main thoroughfare and the street on which is situated the royal palace, experience the unpleasant sensation of tripping over rats which cross their way in thick, brown streams.

Plants that ordinarily grow in soil are being raised by a University of California scientist in tanks of water to which needed mineral salts are added, artificial sunshine also being supplied.

SYNOPSIS

Here is an absorbing and exciting story of a fight against stubborn prejudice and a bitter personal malignancy of a girl and a man battling ridicule, sabotage, bullets, and the treachery that would turn them against each other.

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Thus, Link Fleming knew that to win Roper to his dream was to spell success. Only he would swing ranchers into line for irrigation. He was now carrying out his promise of yesterday so that Link could present Soak Torney, the drink-broken cattle engineer he had discovered in an Atlanta saloon. A mere shell of the man he had once been, he still was as enthusiastic about irrigating barren land as Fleming himself.

"Buz is a regular glibber," cocked, Kilgo grinned at the crowd, putting his arm around young Hamilton. "I'm for him too, 'cause I reckon yuh all know his sister and me are— Well," he said embarrassedly, "he'll be back in town pretty soon, and maybe then she'll tell me yuh about our plans."

"But that's off the track now. I don't go in for fads as you men know, and maybe irrigation is one. Link, tell us about it; reckon that's what yuh got us here for, ain't it?"

"Buz was his chance, his long-sought opportunity to win the ranchers to his views! He had prepared for this moment for a year. Enthusiasm swept over him as it always did when he pondered the new means of improving the range. His pulse sped faster, and standing at full height before them, he chose his words with care.

"If you men could raise alfalfa to feed your stock winters, and use your home grass in the summer, you wouldn't need to worry whether the government passed rules about the foothills or not."

"We ain't farmers. We're cattlemen!" Buz snapped.

"Well, something's got to be done, because we're going to be barred from the foothills, and our range is too thin to support steers all year round. Water the waste lands that's all around us and you can grow alfalfa enough to feed your beef and

Modern External Treatment Helps End Colds Sooner

Just Rubbed on at Bedtime Its Double-Action Continues Through Hours of Restful Sleep.

OFTEN RELIEVES BY MORNING

Before a miserable cold gets you down, go to bed and apply Vicks VapoRub. Two generations have proved VapoRub the surest help to a milder, shorter cold.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster.
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—helps break congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

maybe have some left over to sell. The secret is, irrigation!

"I've got seventeen hundred acres that hasn't been good for anything. It isn't worth as much as ordinary range, and grass brings only fifty cents an acre. But if I water that wasteland—" He paused impressively. "It will be worth at least a hundred dollars an acre!"

There was a swift exchange of surprised, doubtful, and questioning looks. Kilgo lifted a bushy eyebrow at his friend and henchman, Jackpot Mell. The proprietor of the Half Moon Saloon kept his face a mask but nodded slightly. His lean, wiry fingers toyed with the watch chain of shiny nuggets draped across his flowered vest. Fleming, from his raised position, followed the significant looks and felt a flash of uncertainty. But perhaps it was only his habitual suspicion of the Box 50 owner and his mare cur, a cold blooded killer—

"From fifty cents to a hundred bucks an acre is pretty long talk," Soak Howland muttered skeptically. "Yeah, and dammin' up water costs money. How do yuh figure to finance it, Link?" Honest John Mulrooney inquired.

"By forming the Boone County Improvement Association. We'll all buy stock according to the size of our spread. That will provide capital for the irrigation ditches and dams."

"Well, o' course," Kilgo pointed out, "there's no use to form an association unless we're shore the thing'll pay. Way it looks to me, we oughta have the judgment of some body that knows irrigation. How about listenin' to Soak Torney? Soak's done engineering' all over the world. He can tell us about Link's scheme, whether it'll work or not."

"This, of course, was an adroit leading up to the winning of the whole throng of cattlemen. 'I figure to go on what Torney says,' Roper went on generously. "How about the rest of you guys?"

Why, the thing was now almost a certainty! If Roper endorsed Torney, the others were certain to follow like sheep. With eagerness he tried hard to mask, Fleming watched the men react.

"Reckon Soak knows plenty about engineering," at that, Mulrooney concurred.

"Buz, let yuh go along on whatever we decide? How about you, Benson? All right, Link, let's hear the facts."

The Star Loop owner realized that perhaps he had misjudged Kilgo. He was being helpful now, and seemed really anxious to know more about irrigation, which he had so derisively opposed during the last year. Yes, Link felt he had done a man no injustice. Roper wasn't as bad as he was painted.

The important thing was to seize this advantage. Turning, he beckoned to Torney. "Come on up here and tell us about it, Soak," he invited as casually as he could manage. "You're the man knows about waterin' land. We want your opinion."

All eyes watched the ragged, unkempt figure of the saloon hanger-on rise from his chair and begin to shuffle forward in his fidgety, hangdog way. Vague apprehension made Link frown as he saw that Soak was the worse for a recent drinking bout, though he had promised earnestly to remain sober for this meeting. His eyes were lustreless and his whole manner that of a spineless braggart.

However—Fleming shrugged—it was merely Torney's endorsement as a civil engineer that was needed to clinch the support of Boone County ranchers. He appeared sufficiently in control of his senses to give that. Pahaw, what damage could he do even in his present condition?

"What's your idea on this?" Link asked. "Could we build an irrigation plant here?"

The man wet his lips while he blinked self-consciously. "Reckon you can build it anywhere you want."

Roper grinned at him secretly, and nodded. "How much would a proposition like this cost us?" Link went on, drawing him out.

The engineer rubbed his reddish nose as he studied the floor in front of him. "About thirty-five or forty thousand dollars for a starter. You could build part and operate it while yuh raise more money to go on with the scheme."

"Raise more money'n that? What do yuh mean? What's the total?" Howland demanded.

"Around sixty thousand."

Several men gasped. "If you want your land to increase in value it'll take some investment, of course. But if we all chip in it won't be so bad. The thing is sure to be worth while," argued Fleming.

There was a slight pause. "That's the point," Roper drawled slowly. "Will it be worth while? I will. I've about made up my mind to go in it. How about you boys?"

He gazed from face to face. Several men frowned hesitantly, then nodded. If there were any who distrusted Kilgo's leadership, they feared to oppose it. A few looked grim and several appeared rebellious. But the Box 50 owner's declaration applied to all of them. As usual, they would do what he did, follow him like sheep.

"That's settled then. Me—I'm willin', like you boys, to gamble on Torney's say-so. Should we go ahead with irrigation or stay out? That's the thing in a nutshell. Ain't it, Link?"

"Exactly. Now, Soak," he went on, striving to keep triumph out of his voice, "how about it?"

Torney swallowed hard. He cast a furtive, pleading look at Fleming. His bleary gaze swerved, to hold as if riveted on Kilgo and the cold-eyed Jackpot Mell as he answered in his husky, half-audible whisper.

"You could build dams and raise alfalfa—sure. But it'd be a crazy fool thing to do. Irrigation sounds all right, but it's nothing but a new-fangled way to waste money."

"Roper's said all along this ain't any good," he went on hurriedly. "My advice to you men is to stick to Roper—then you're safe. Why, I wouldn't give two cents for all the irrigation dams an' ditches in the United States."

CHAPTER II.

Silence fell like a blanket over the meeting of cattlemen. Fleming's jaw sagged, and his stunned amazement was mirrored on every face in the throng. For everyone, of course, had fully expected Torney to give emphatic approval. Why, the rancher who stood blithely before him had been almost won over. Why, it had not been for this sudden reversal, coming with the unexpectedness of a shot in the dark, the irrigation scheme would proceed to organization with all Boone County backing it.

All eyes fixed on Link. Because he was the originator and ardent advocate of the plan, his reaction was of prime interest. While he stood with an incredulous, dismayed expression on his tanned face, Roper glanced again at Jackpot Mell. Kilgo looked at him with a stare.

Their look lasted but an instant; then they turned their faces from him. No hint of feeling was in their exchange, but deep in Fleming's heart distrust sprang up. As for the rest, as if he had heard exultant words between them, he knew why Soak Torney had suddenly changed his attitude toward irrigation.

He must have been reached—threatened or persuaded from his true conviction. Only yesterday the man had been as enthusiastic as Link!

At once his mind began to build on this thought. Roper had always opposed the thing, until yesterday. His seeming friendliness then was the mask of his ruse. That was clear enough now. Perhaps he feared that his leadership, his grip on local cattlemen, was at stake. If Link put this thing into operation, he, not Kilgo, would become the chief to whom weaker men looked for guidance. Roper's power would be gone.

Yes, that must be it. Kilgo used this means to kill forever talk of irrigation, in which he did not believe himself. He wanted the subject scotched—so that he had chosen a means to accomplish this with ally Torney. He had done it, he knew, for he had seen that he was.

There was a stir in the crowd. "Huh!" Soak Howland grunted, "reckon that's settled. This waterin' business ain't any better than I thought."

"Hold on, boys!" Link looked about for Torney, but realized that Soak had shambled quickly off during the taut, astonished silence. He cleared his throat scarcely knowing what he could say to hold them, to

Then sudden anger waved over him, and with both fists clenched until the knuckles showed white, he spoke in a low, intense tone. "Somebody's tampered with Torney. That wasn't his real opinion! Why, he's told me a hundred times irrigation would do wonders for us all. We've worked on this thing, drawn up blueprints, even. Somebody influenced Soak, made him say what he did!" he cried insistently. "I tell you men you're going to regret it if you don't irrigate!"

An Expensive Privilege

Player Who Makes Hole-In-One Deserves A Reward

The doubtful privilege of buying drinks for everybody, which used to be the time-honored custom for all golfers playing a hole in one stroke, is being abandoned in London, Eng.

In future they will be rewarded for accomplishing the feat.

The amateur golfers, a hole in one, invariably cost at least $25 in drinks and entertainment to fellow-players, and the pleasure of doing it thereby was minimized.

It was so bad in pre-war days when whiskey cost less than a dollar a bottle, but now when it sells around $2.50, a hole in one is pretty expensive.

So the Wilderness club, Kent, has decided that the player doing a hole in one shall be entertained to a meal with full liquor trimmings "on the house." In addition, his green fees—if he is a visitor—and his caddy fees will be refunded.

"We feel that the player who does a hole in one deserves his reward," said Major W. H. Hodgson, secretary of the club. "The last time that happened on this course it cost the player $55. It was the 18th hole, which measures 265 yards, and naturally a good deal of interest was caused."

Secretaries of other clubs have voiced their general approval of the scheme which is likely to become general.

Motor Firm Buys Horses

Foundry Employees Work On Farm During Slack Periods

A new idea in industry was brought to light recently with the announcement a factory making automobile parts was buying horses. The Holmes Foundry Co., Ltd., a manufacturer of automobile engines at Sarnia, Ont., purchased three head of Percheron horses for a total of $5,000.

L. G. Blunt, president, explained the horses were used on vegetable farms owned by the firm. His industry was seasonal, he said, and during the off-season his men went out on the farm and grew all types of vegetables. As a result their off time was put into profitable use.

The men were not paid for their farm work, but the total produce was divided among the number of workmen, the company footing the bill for land, seed, implements, and horses.

The reason for this, he said, lay in the fact his industry demanded skilled workmen. If all employees were laid off when the slack season came it would cost a tremendous amount of money to either find them again or train new employees when the busy season again came around.

In this manner, he said, all employees were kept busy and all were available immediately when they were needed. This avoids closing down the plant when the public demand for automobile cylinders slackens.

Lord Tweedsmuir Was Exhibited In Royal Winter Fair Exh.

A governor-general in this serge suit and black fedora looked over with critical eye the livestock product of a prince's ranch, brought east from the Alberta foothills to adorn the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto.

Lord Tweedsmuir dropped into the fair with his son, Hon. Alastair Buchanan, and had a look at Bapton Orator—otherwise the price of Pekisko Creek—from the Prince of Wales E. P. Ranch. The E. P. bull, winner in the two-year-old Shorthorn competition, was brought from the stall for the governor-general to look at, but was good-natured about it.

Lord Tweedsmuir also examined the University of Alberta cattle, and was much interested in the grand champion cattle shown by W. J. Skinner, Sennerville, Que., and Mount Victoria Farms, Hudson Heights, Que.

The governor-general said he would "very much like to see the hogs," and followed them up with sheep and dogs. "There's a Cotswold sheep, a thing you don't often see in the Cotswolds now," he remarked at one stage.

Earlier, His Excellency visited the blind display show and bought a tray after watching the blind handicraftsmen and women at work.

Little Helps For This Week

But this I say brethren, the time is short, 1 Corinthians 7:29.

I sometimes feel the thread of life is slender, and soon with me the labor will be wrought; Then grows my heart to other things, and I am lost. The time is short.

You who are letting miserable misunderstandings run on from year to year, meaning to clear them up some day; who are keeping wretched quarrels alive because you cannot make up your mind that this is the day to sacrifice your pride and kill them; who are passing men suddenly on the street, not speaking to them out of some silly spite, and yet knowing it would fill you with remorse some day; that one of them were dead tomorrow morning; you who are letting your neighbor starve till you hear he is dying of starvation, or letting your friend's heart ache for a word of appreciation or sympathy which you mean to give him some day; if you can only know and see all of a sudden that the time is short, how it would break the spell. How you would go and do instantly that which you might never have another chance to do.

W. J. BARTLETT, PUBLISHER

Blairmore, Alta., Thur., Dec. 12, 1935

A NEWSPAPER'S POINT OF VIEW

Some time ago Premier Aberhart announced that all liquor advertising would be banned in the Province of Alberta after November 1st. A delegation of the press association waited upon Mr. Aberhart and pointed out to him that such a ban would cost $75,000.00 to the publishers of Alberta, much of this money coming from outside the province. Mr. Aberhart's contention at that time was that advertising had an unfavorable influence on the young people of the province. In answer to this it was pointed out that papers and magazines printed outside the province and over which Mr. Aberhart had no control, would carry such advertising, and the effect, if any, on the morals of the young people would be influenced through that source.

Mr. Aberhart could find no answer to that argument and the matter was allowed to stand. Now, another announcement is made that all liquor advertising within the province must be discontinued after January 31st, 1936. This time Mr. Aberhart does not use the "moral" argument—that he would not hold water. He has a new one. He is reported to have said that the action is being taken at the request of the distillers because of the extra tax to be imposed by the provincial government.

If this is true—and frankly it does not sound true—it simply means that Mr. Aberhart is allowing the distillers to take the tax, not from their profits, but from the newspapers; in other words the newspapers of Alberta are made to pay—to the extent of $75,000.00 per year—the extra liquor tax.

If Mr. Aberhart decides that no liquor advertising shall appear in any paper published in Alberta, then no such advertising will appear. But what has become of Mr. Aberhart's pre-election ballyhoo that the day of the big fellow was over; that it was time the little man had a chance to earn a living? What becomes of his pious pulpitizing before and since the election?

Can it be true, as is suspected, that Mr. Aberhart is gradually but surely being brought under the control of St. James Street?

Premier Aberhart states he will ban liquor advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio and billboards. The loss to The Journal is at least $200 per year. This evidently is not a Social Credit dividend. Increased taxes for the province are also forecast. Now he is finding where the money is coming from. Incidentally the brewers did not want to abolish advertising, as stated in an Edmonton news despatch. It is often the case that the very people who depend largely on newspapers for free publicity of their activities, make the biggest noise in cutting down the newspaper's legitimate sources of revenue. A group of Tuxis boys, according to Aberhart, asked him to abolish liquor advertising. Why didn't they go further, and pass a resolution against the government being a partner in this supposedly evil traffic. The inconsistency and narrow attitude of some fanatics gets one's goat. They do not refuse to take the so-called "tainted money" when it comes to crowding on all the taxes they can without destroying the source of revenue from licenses and taxes. Consistency, then, are a jewel. One can imagine the noise if all Social Credit supporters had their incomes cut down. It's alright with them as long as someone else gets soaked.—Coleman Journal.

THE LIQUOR AD. BAN

Now that the government has decided definitely to ban all liquor advertising in Alberta, an important question arises, namely how far are the provincial authorities justified in putting obstacles in the way of legitimate industry doing business.

It cannot be gainsaid, however much some people may dislike the liquor trade, that it is a business which has the sanction and support of the majority of the electors of this province.

It was by their mandate that it was re-established here following the unsatisfactory prohibition drought.

The new government made no appeal to the voters upon the question of the liquor trade, presumably because they were fully cognizant of the fact that it was the wish of the people that government control should remain in force.

Then it assuredly follows that having, by the wishes of the people, been re-established subject to certain safeguards and regulations, the liquor trade has the right to do business in the same manner as any other legitimate industry.

Under these circumstances, there would seem to be no justification for curtailing liquor advertisements any more than there would be for cutting out the advertising of the butcher, the baker and candle-stick maker.

After all, liquor advertisements are not for the sole purpose of urging people to drink, but rather are they published in order that those who do take a little wine for their stomach's sake may know what brands are available on the shelves of the government liquor stores.

The argument that it is a bad thing for this publicity to be displayed before the eyes of youth is not tenable unless the same suppression is applied to all other advertisements which might be said by some to fall into the supposedly objectionable category.

Why not ban cigarette ads because they encourage young women to smoke.

Why not kill candy advertisements because sweets are bad for the teeth? In fact, fanatics could find objection to scores of products which are freely advertised, but which do not yield anything like the revenue that the liquor trade hands to the government.

But there is also another aspect of the matter. These liquor ads have been helping to provide increased purchasing power among the newspaper fraternity.

Printers, editorial men, in fact the entire human element engaged in the production of Alberta's daily and weekly newspapers have felt the benefit of them at a time when increased revenue was of the utmost importance to all concerned.

Surely it cannot be contended that a government elected on a mandate to provide additional purchasing power for the masses is acting in a logical manner in depriving the newspapers of a source of revenue which helps to pay wages and salaries.

The Review believes that the government would be well advised to withdraw this advertising ban once and for all. This is no time for any government, Social Credit or otherwise, to put into effect pet fads and theories of its own which are bound to irritate the very voters who elected it.

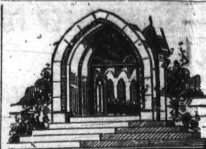

What the people are looking for today is leadership and action on the major issues of the day. They will not long stand for a continued meddling with pleasure matters that can accomplish nothing towards getting us out of the morass into which we have blundered.—Drumheller News Review.

THE ITALIAN OUTRAGE

The sickening tale of the Italian advance in Africa continues to shock the world. At the moment we are reading of the slaughter of two thousand Ethiopians by twenty of Italy's bombing planes. Ten thousand ill-equipped Africans, concentrated in a narrow valley south of Makale, made a grand target for the winged legions of Mussolini and provided fine hunting for his war-crazed sons. What a story the Italian war department has to tell: "The battle lasted from 8:40 a.m. to 10:40 a.m. yesterday, with incessant bombing and machine gunning. The planes swooped down to within a hundred feet of the ground, dropping bombs. We saw the Ethiopians scatter, fast, but we got hundreds of them before they could take shelter. Incendiary bombs set fire to the encampment. Attention is called to the heroism and disdain of danger demonstrated by all our personnel." And the blinding shame of it all is that if the tables were turned and the black men of Africa were overrunning Italy, the armies of the world would be falling over one another to go to the rescue of Rome. Twist and turn and argue as we will, the nations of Europe and America will not find it easy to justify their callous delay in stopping by every means in their power this dastardly outrage against Africa and against all the deencies of civilization.—New Outlook.

BREWERS NEVER SUGGESTED BAN ON BEER ADVERTISING

Strong objection is taken by R. J. Chiswick, manager of Lethbridge Breweries, to a statement in an Edmonton dispatch Thursday which said:

"Alberta brewers are said to have supported the plan to ban advertising (of beer and liquors), in the belief that their products did not benefit by advertising particularly, and that the cost was great."

There never was any suggestion of the kind made by any of the Alberta brewers, declared Mr. Chiswick.—Lethbridge Herald.

POOR MAN'S BEEF STEAK

Cut steak from the top of the round in uniform pieces for serving. Score the surface well with a sharp knife in different directions, turn and score the other side. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and dredge with flour. Try out some of the fat trimmings in an iron frying pan and sear the surface of the steak quickly, turning over to sear the other side. When richly browned, reduce the heat and cover with beef stock or boiling water, cover closely and let simmer until meat is tender. Remove meat from pan to hot platter and thicken the liquor with flour diluted with cold water. Add more seasoning, if necessary, and strain over the meat. Serve with baked potatoes. By this method such a cut of steak is rendered tender and very palatable.

CATALOGUED GALS

Everything is made so easy nowadays! Cars have self-starters. Electric clocks don't have to be wound. And now gals are catalogued for easy and satisfactory dating. It all started down in Cambridge, Mass. According to the dispatch the Tech Menohax Society recently held a dance attended by about 200 girls. They were asked to leave information concerning themselves covering age, height, weight, color of hair and eyes, personal habits, kind of dates preferred, and much more. Of course the catalog will tell the evenings they like to go out and the kind of men they prefer.

This ought to simplify matters greatly in a large centre where there are gals and boys everywhere but who don't know how to date up which.—Ex.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

On Friday, December 6th, the Cowley girls staged a very successful dance in the Wilson hall, when around two hundred people were present. Twenty dollars was netted, to be added to the club fund.

The Cowley Christmas Tree and concert will be held in the Wilson hall on the night of the nineteenth of December.

Mrs. L. V. M. Peel and family, of Cranbrook, are paying a visit of a few days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy.

At a dance held in the Tanner schoolhouse on Friday night last, in aid of the Christmas Tree fund, twenty-one dollars was netted after expenses were paid. The sack of four drawn for was won by Mrs. Russell Smyth.

Mr. Holmes, fisheries inspector, was in town from Pincher Creek on Friday.

Mrs. Robert Littleton has returned from a few days visit with her brother, Scotty Wells, and family at Bellevue.

Miss Jean Morrison is paying a visit of several days with her sister, Mrs. C. Dambos, and family at Bellevue.

The card party and dance held in Wilson's hall on Wednesday night, in aid of the Christmas Tree fund, was well attended. There were thirteen tables of whist at play, prizes being won by: Mrs. Della Snyder, ladies' first; Miss Edith Murphy, consolation; Richard Alexander, gents' first; Ed. LaBrie, consolation. Mrs. Morrison won the moving prize, while the box of apples went to Edward Franz.

Good music for the dance was supplied by local talent. A tasty repast was served after cards. After expenses were met, around $28 was realized.

A fatal accident occurred on a level road, eighteen miles north of Wilson on Saturday, when a Russian man by the name of Selekin was instantly killed. A load of poles that he and another man named Musta were bringing in for firewood overturned by a heavy wind. Both men were on top of the load at the time. Selekin was pinned underneath. Musta escaped with a bruised arm. Selekin was sixty-five years of age and is survived by two sons and two daughters. He was born in Russia and immigrated to Canada with the Doukhobors in 1898.

R. Richards was a visitor to Lethbridge last week.

Welsh Brothers' garage is completed and now open for business.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Cruikshank motored to Calgary last week.

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

The home of Mrs. B. Milnes was the scene of a nicely arranged surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of her daughter, Mrs. G. D'Amico (nee Muriel Goodwin). Hostesses of the evening were Mrs. J. Boyle and Mrs. Harry Smith. The first of the evening was spent at bingo and other games. After a dainty luncheon, the new bride was presented with two well-filled baskets of beautiful gifts. Mrs. D'Amico, in a few words, thanked her many friends for their kind remembrances.

Rev. and Mrs. Harry Peters, of Granum, were house guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Shevils.

The dance held in the L.O.O.F. hall on Friday evening, under auspices of the Bellevue School Woodworkers, was quite a success.

Thomas Dugdale, of Creston, is in town, visiting with his brothers, Pete and Jack.

RE LIQUOR ADVERTISING

It is difficult for Alberta publishers to believe the premier's motive, for robbing them of this legitimate revenue is wholly altruistic. A Tense Situation

As the Italo-Ethiopian war progresses, and with economic sanctions imposed by the great majority of the members of the League of Nations gradually tightening, the situation in Europe becomes increasingly grave.

The danger of what, a few months ago, appeared to be little more than a colonizing venture of Mussolini in North Africa at the expense of one of the black races, developing into a world conflagration of even greater magnitude than the Great War of 1914-18 with far greater losses and more fearful consequences to civilization seems more imminent with the lapse of time.

While incidents reported from Europe indicate almost daily fluctuations of this world peril there can be no gainsaying the fact that once again all Europe is an armed camp with all nations breathlessly watching the trend of events and the more powerful ones ready to assume the offensive or defensive as circumstances may require or politico-national exigencies may warrant.

One day despatches contain news which reveal a dreadful maelstrom into which the nations are being sucked willy-nilly, with or without their desire. Two or three days later the news is more assuring. The crisis of the moment has been bridged. People breathe a little more easily and await the next hair-raising development, reasonably sure that it will soon appear.

And so it goes from day to day. A situation develops which brings tension and alarm. Conditions are utterly different. Diplomats hastily exchange notes and conversations, threats are withdrawn or modified or "explained". The tension eases. The peril has been averted momentarily at least, but the black shadow remains and will continue to exist until it is either dispelled entirely or becomes a terrific substance.

It hardly seems conceivable that when Mussolini put his threatened invasion of Ethiopia into execution he could have been aware of what was to follow. He must surely have assumed that the League of Nations would be split asunder when its members were faced with the question of carrying out their obligations to prevent or punish violation of the territory of another member or that some of the stronger members would be willing to put a telescope to a blind eye rather than fulfil their duties and run the risk of precipitating a situation which might lead to a general conflagration.

If that was the viewpoint of the dictator of Italy he guessed wrong. If he thought he could bluff the dominating powers of the League, again he guessed wrong. It would have been the easy way out for the League to have begged the question and to have found excuses to permit Mussolini to have his way in North Africa, knowing that the imposition of sanctions might lead to a very dangerous situation. They did not, however, but took their solemn pledges seriously and decided to implement them. Action followed decision.

The peril lies not so much in the mere fact that the League has imposed economic sanctions and is making them effective but in the possibility of some of the members weakening in the face of threats, or of abandoning the position they have taken because of danger from other quarters or because it may become advantageous to do so.

And Mussolini himself is in a dire predicament. He has now gone too far in his adventure to recede without impairing his position among his own countrymen. In fact, recession would spell disaster for him at home. On the other hand he cannot expect to carry his campaign to a successful conclusion with a great majority of the nations cutting off his supplies, but defeat in Ethiopia would terminate his career as Italian dictator. On the horns of this dilemma, it can be assumed that Mussolini will leave no stone unturned to disrupt the accord which exists among the nations who have combined in imposing punitive measures against him.

Mussolini unquestionably knows that there is unrest against British rule in India and Egypt and that the Moroccans and Tunisians would welcome an opportunity to throw off the French yoke. If by stirring up trouble in these countries he could divert some of the energies of these great powers into other channels it would be of distinct advantage to the Italians.

For it is quite conceivable that the outbreak of strife in these countries would be the precursor of troubles and warfare in other countries and might develop into the long-prophesied conflict between the Christian countries of the world and the nations which bow their heads to Mohammed.

While it is difficult to forecast what combinations might result from a split in the ranks of the nations now engaged in preventing the culmination of Italy's act of aggression, because of the many diverse interests involved and the ramifications interposed among them, the situation is fraught with perils which may well cause apprehension even among many peoples who at the moment appear remote from danger.

May Grant Privilege

Australian Women Likely To Act As Jurors In Court

Before the year closes women might be acting as jurors in Australia and also sitting on the bench. The minister of justice of New South Wales, L. O. Martin, has promised to introduce a bill to give women that privilege.

They would not be presiding magistrates, but act as assessors on in industrial courts. They would be permitted to express to the presiding magistrate, with becoming brevity, it is hoped, their opinions on the cases.

The desire to do this has long held a place in the thoughts of women who are active in public affairs, and they are bent upon translating ambition into fact. The children's court is their first objective. They claim that they are better qualified to deal with young children than the ordinary magistrate. The children's court, however, deals with cases of youths aged 18 years, as well as with younger ones, and even women advocates admit that a man is better able to deal with some older juvenile offenders than a woman.

They argue, however, that a woman's presence, coupled with a word in season to the man presiding, might be beneficial. Past and present magistrates do not all agree with that opinion. There are women justices of the peace, of course, in Sydney. Certain ardent feminists ask why they should not sit on the bench, but not even male justices of the peace sit on the bench in Sydney. It is said in quarters most familiar with the working of the courts that they never will.

Alberta Rhodes Scholar

Mark McClung, Son Of Canadian Authors, Receives Award

University of Alberta Rhodes scholar for 1935-36 is Mark McClung, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McClung, of Victoria, formerly of Calgary and Winnipeg. The new Rhodes scholar's mother is Nellie McClung, the noted Canadian author. Award of the scholarship was made known recently.

A student in honors philosophy, Mr. McClung's campus career was marked by brilliant scholastic success. He has been at the University of Alberta for five years and during that time has taken active part in student affairs.

The new Rhodes scholar expects to leave for Oxford in the fall and intends to spend three years overseas. A brother, Jack, solicitor in the provincial attorney-general's department, brought a similar honor to the family on conclusion of his career at the University of Alberta by winning the G.O.E. scholarship which enabled him to spend a year in the Old Country.

Savings Deposits

Have Increased Almost A Million Dollars During Past Year

Savings deposits in Canadian chartered banks on Oct. 31 amounted to $1,465,401,708—almost $1,000,000 more than on the corresponding date in 1934, according to the monthly statement of the banks to the department of finance. There was $21,000,000 increase in deposits since last September 30.

Current account deposits also showed a marked increase, being up $35,000,000 in the month and more than $80,000,000 as compared with Oct. 31, 1934.

Deposits outside Canada were up about $6,000,000 in the month and more than $60,000,000 in the year, accounted for in a large measure by the increasing deposits of currency other than Canadian in Canadian banks, which are shown in this column.

Current loans in Canada were down some $15,000,000 in the month and $40,000,000 less than a year ago, while call loans were also down.

License Fees From Radios

Amount Received From Owners About Same As Last Year

Collection of license fees on radio receiving sets during the current fiscal year has been running about on a par with last year when the total revenue from this source was slightly less than $1,500,000. Beginning with the fiscal year 1933-34 the fee has been $2 for each receiving set.

In spite of the depression and the fact that radio owners on relief have not been pressed for their license fees, collections have been between 80 and 90 per cent. complete, officials at Ottawa said.

Cost of collection has been about an average of 15 cents for each $2 license with a general overhead of 5 per cent.

Inaugurates New Service

Japanese Department Store Has Opened Free Marriage Bureau

Not content with merely imitating the merchandising practices of the West, a large department store in Osaka, Japan, has instituted a new native service for customers. A free marriage bureau has been opened in the store. There men and women who desire to marry may register and furnish pertinent information about themselves.

Marriage in Japan usually is arranged by families, rather than by the individuals concerned, through go-betweens who receive a commission for their services. The new bureau will take over the work customarily done by the go-betweens.

There is a business reason for the establishment of this free service. The couples who meet through the bureau will purchase their wedding outfit at the store.—New York Times.

Radio Inquiry

Parliamentary Committee May Hold Investigation

A parliamentary committee may be established when the house meets in January to investigate radio broadcasting in Canada, particularly the administration of the radio commission. It was learned recently.

It was understood every phase of broadcasting would be probed including the possibility of regulating broadcasting by a general manager instead of a commission of three.

The campaign, Mr. MacKenzie King took exception to certain broadcasts under the name of "Mr. Sage" and promised reform of broadcasting regulations to stop abuse of public men. It is probable the "Mr. Sage" broadcast will be investigated.

No Substitute For Butter

It Is A Concentrated Energy And Heat Producer

Butter is one of the foods which has been widely used for many centuries, but whose true nutritional merit has only recently been brought to light, according to Laura C. Pepper, of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture. Recognizing the importance of adequate amounts of fats in diet and the valuable contributions made to health by butter, modern scientists uphold the generous use of this superior fat.

Palatability and high food value are the two qualities which earn for butter the distinction of being "the fat for which there is no substitute." Fats recommended for their tasteless properties hold little or no interest for the woman who prides herself on her cooking. She knows it is butter that makes cream sauces look and taste so rich; it is the butter used in cakes and cookies that evokes praise from friends; and, similarly, it is butter that insures excellent flavour and colour in many dishes prepared for the family table.

As for food value, butter is a concentrated energy producer, yielding 2 1/2 times as much heat in the body as sugar and starch foods. It is a strong argument in favour of using plenty of butter, particularly during cold weather when the body requires extra heat. Butter is easily digested and readily and completely assimilated by the body; it contains small quantities of lime and phosphorus, and in addition has a high vitamin content which distinguishes it from other fats. It is an exceptionally good source of Vitamin A, which builds up resistance to disease and promotes normal health and growth.

Butter is also one of the few foods which provide Vitamin D—the sunshine vitamin—so necessary for the development of bones and teeth. The National Physical Laboratory at Teddington, Eng., has a tank, 670 feet long and 30 feet wide, in which scale models of boats and ships of all sizes are tested for speed and seaworthiness.

A civic law in Tenganan, Dutch East Indies, forbids men to work in the village under penalty of being publicly thrashed by women.

Now Linked By Wireless

Lone Island Of Grand Cayman Connected With Jamaica

An island paradise where time for centuries has stood still, heard a belated warning of the march of progress, when wireless communication was established between Jamaica and Grand Cayman, one of her dependencies.

Lying about 300 miles northwest of Jamaica, Grand Cayman is the "whitest" island in the West Indies, more than 4,000 out of a total population of 5,000 being from English stock. Many of the original settlers came to Jamaica about the time Charles II. was put on the throne, and when his governor began to make trouble for them here, they moved to Grand Cayman. Others are descendants of English pirates and shipwrecked seamen who were the terrors of the Caribbean more than 200 years ago. Piracy that brought uncertain rewards was abandoned for the safer trade of wrecking—luring ships ashore by false beacons.

A religious people, they habitually prayed ships would be caught on the coral reef bounding the island, and a story is told how a congregation who ran out into a storm to look a wreck were hailed by the parson: "Brethren, wait for the benediction, and let's all start fair."

But to-day the Grand Caymans are described as the happiest and most law-abiding people in the world. So peaceful have they become, it is said the only sin they commit is in dropping their ivy.

Until Governor Sir Edward Denham of Jamaica formally opened the wireless service, the only communication with Grand Cayman was by boat.

A NEW APPEAL FOR PEACE IS MADE TO ITALY

London.—Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, addressed a new peace appeal to Italy, but coupled with it an assertion that "this appeal is no sign of weakness."

Before a tense and crowded house of commons, Sir Samuel joined this plea, a promise of "another great effort" to end the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, and a renewed pledge to "play our part" in any collective League of Nations action to apply an oil embargo against Italy.

These were the outstanding points of Sir Samuel's speech:

1. Declaring both Britain and the league were pledged in principle to the oil embargo, he said the United Kingdom was "prepared to take our share in whatever collective action is determined" at the league sanctions committee meeting.

2. He told the house of commons Britain and France intend to "redouble our efforts" to reconcile Italy, Ethiopia and the league before that meeting, and appealed directly to "Duce and the people of Italy to 'dis-miss entirely from their minds the suspicion that we have sinister motives behind our support of the league.'"

3. In announcing support for the projected oil embargo, Sir Samuel said he wished to make it clear "that no one government is any more responsible than another for this collective decision, or, indeed, for any of the sanctions proposals." He did not specifically mention Canada in this connection.

4. Taking cognizance of the North China autonomy trouble, he politely warned Japan that her friendly relations with her neighbors might be endangered by indications of aggression in North China.

Unfortunate events had lent color to the belief that Japanese influence was being exerted to shape internal political developments in China. Anything tending to create this belief, could only harm Japanese prestige and hamper friendly relations with her neighbors.

Sir Samuel expressed his regret that Great Britain had failed in an attempt to reopen disarmament discussions with Chancellor Hitler of Germany. "So far as the Ethiopian war is concerned, there is little to be gained by these discussions," he told the house.

"We have no wish to weaken Italy or to humiliate Italy," Sir Samuel told the house. "Indeed, we are anxious to see a strong Italy in this world—an Italy that is strong morally, politically, socially, and that is able to contribute to the world in valuable assistance."

"I appeal once again to Signor Mussolini and his government to dismiss entirely from their minds the suspicion that we have sinister motives behind our support of the league. We have none."

"Let them dismiss from their minds the suspicion that we wish to drive a wedge between Italy and France. We wish to see Italy and France the firmest friends and we are glad we were able to help in the entente that brought Italy and France together at the beginning of this year."

Likewise, he went on, Britain had no desire to weaken the position of Duce "and destroy the Fascist regime." We have not the least desire to interfere in the internal affairs of Italy.

Intends To Retire

Premier Of Ontario States His Decision Still Stands

Toronto.—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of Ontario came home from a health trip to the south, determined to carry out his plan of retiring from politics after the 1936 session of the Ontario legislature. He spent the last month in Florida and will return there after the Dominion-provincial conference.

Bronzed and feeling much better after his four weeks rest, Mr. Hepburn was hopeful that the improvement in his health would continue, but that wouldn't alter his decision to quit politics. His decision to retire as premier and leader of the Liberal party in Ontario "still stands," he said.

Memorial For Jellicoe

London.—Prime Minister Baldwin will ask parliament at an early date to make financial provision for a memorial to the late Earl Jellicoe, it was rumored in the lobbies of the House of Commons.

Not For Defence Purposes

Huge British Loan Is To Retire Other Obligations

London.—It was authoritatively stated that the funding loan which was successfully subscribed soon after its issue could not be devoted to defence purposes. It was specifically earmarked for the retirement of other obligations.

In some quarters, however, it has been suggested that the cleaning up of the money market by the present funding operations would simplify the flotation of a defence loan later.

(Previous reports were to the effect that part of the £300,000,000 loan might be used for defence purposes. Haves said it had learned from a high admiralty source that in the event that no agreement was forthcoming from the naval conference here some of the proceeds would be used for the building of three new battle cruisers.)

Reports of an impending huge defence loan for months off and on have been a handy device by certain stock exchange interests to whip occasional flagging business.

Official assurances that there would be a substantial increase in the defence forces naturally stimulated interest as to where the money was coming from. But far from satisfying public curiosity the government hitherto has declined to reveal even the extent of the new armaments. The appearance of the new funding loan revived conjecture on this point.

British Labor Platform

Lays Line Of Attack Against The Government

London.—The Labor party, its membership in the House of Commons strengthened by last month's general election, served notice on the line of attack against the government it will follow in parliament.

An amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne was approved by the party.

The Labor amendment reads as follows: "This house regrets the failure of His Majesty's advisers to indicate an effective policy for the restoration and maintenance of peace, the reduction of armaments by international agreement and the removal of the economic causes of war; the failure to recognize the need to plan the economic life of the country on the basis of public ownership in order to abolish poverty in the midst of plenty; the omission of adequate proposals for dealing with unemployment including the abolition of the means test, and for dealing with the distressed areas and the just claims of the unemployed for an immediate increase in wages."

Larger Wheat Acreage

Despite Governmental Efforts To Reduce Acreage This Year

Ottawa.—Wheat acreage increased in Canada this year despite governmental efforts to reduce it, it was reported by the Dominion bureau of statistics. Under the world wheat agreement, Canada undertook to reduce exports and discourage increased acreage through educational means.

A substantial increase was shown in the estimated area sown to principal field crops this year which totalled 55,646,160 acres against 55,037,820 in 1934.

Wheat occupied the largest individual area with 24,115,700 acres, compared with 23,985,000 last year. Oats were next with 14,096,200 acres compared with 13,730,800 in 1934, and barley third with 3,886,900 acres against 3,612,500.

Three-Hour School Day

Italy Shortens Time In Order To Save Coal

Rome.—War has its bright spots for Italy's 5,000,000 grade school children—they have gone on a three-hour day.

They won't have to get up early, becoming "10 o'clock scholars." School will be out at 1 p.m., replacing the previous 8:30-1:30 hours. Probably all the poor pupils will get free hot soup for lunch as usual. The hours were shortened to save coal—needed for Italy's war.

Should Support League

Toronto.—Professor Norman MacKenzie, of the University of Toronto, addressing a service club here, said Canada is bound to support the League of Nations in all but military sanctions. He stated that, if league measures fail, "we will be faced in five years with a situation far graver to our position and one in which we will not be able to call on 50 other nations for help."

Mine Worker Killed

Lost Balance On Timber Slide And Dropped 200 Feet

Nelson, B.C.—Joseph Nicholson, 28, Reno Gold Mines Company employee, lost his balance and plunged 200 feet to instant death in the bottom of a skipway in a raise at the Nuggett-Motherlove property.

Nicholson, with Ivor Chalk and James Ferguson, was working at the head of the skipway. He leaned over the railing at the head of the inclined timber slide to see if a fourth worker, John Ferguson, was ready to receive the next load. He lost his balance, his fellow employees stated, and hurtled down, dying almost instantly.

Nicholson was a native of England, where his mother, Mrs. J. Nicholson, still lives.

Bank Clerk Slain

Quebec Gangsters Escape With $15,000 Of Bank's Funds

Hull, Que.—Gangsters kidnapped two clerks, one of the Hull branches of the Banque Provinciale du Canada, killed one with a bullet in his head, left the other bound and blindfolded and escaped with $15,000 in bills the clerks were taking to the bank's main office in Ottawa.

The dead man, Armand Nadeau, 18-year-old clerk and former Montreal resident, was believed to have attempted to resist the bandits before they pumped three bullets into his head and body. The men fled towards Montreal along the Hull-Montreal highway.

FREE STATE WILL NOT ASK LEAGUE FOR INDEPENDENCE

Dublin.—A resolution demanding the Free State government should claim from the League of Nations recognition of its independence was defeated by a large majority in the convention of President Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail party.

It also required the government to withdraw from Geneva if the league failed to accord the recognition demanded.

Another resolution commending the present policy of the Free State government was carried with only one dissenting vote.

President De Valera declared if Irish membership in the league did not help, it was also true it did not hinder them working for the unity and independence of their country. They could not go to the league making various demands. They could go only if there was a likelihood of the world's peace being affected by the matter in dispute.

The league could not listen to national appeals, said De Valera, unless there was a serious threat of war. Otherwise Geneva would become a court in which all sorts of questions would be brought up.

Replying to a question in the dail, President De Valera said recent rumors of new negotiations with Great Britain were without any foundation. He was understood to refer to disputes involving the payment of land annuities and tariff rates which have remained unresolved since 1932.

HEADS TOURIST BODY

D. Leo Dolan, Director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, who was elected President of the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus, at the annual general meeting at Ottawa.

To Collect Taxes

Ontario Government Will Take Steps To Recover Succession Duties

Toronto.—Employment of informers to aid the Ontario government in its collection of succession duties, corporation taxes and other treasury levies was predicted by Premier Hepburn as he announced an additional $350,000 in succession duties had been recovered from the estate of the late Harold F. Ritchie.

"I warn these estates," said the premier, "that we will not tolerate any attempt to escape making proper contributions to the province. In future 100 per cent. penalties permitted under the Succession Duties Act will be enforced. In addition we are considering paying people who supply us with information respecting evaders."

Any arrangement of this kind, Mr. Hepburn added, would be patterned after the existing federal legislation.

Economic Recovery

Hon. Vincent Massey Gives Cheerful Picture Of Dominion

London.—Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner to London, gave to the Canadian Club a cheerful picture of a Dominion well on the road to economic recovery.

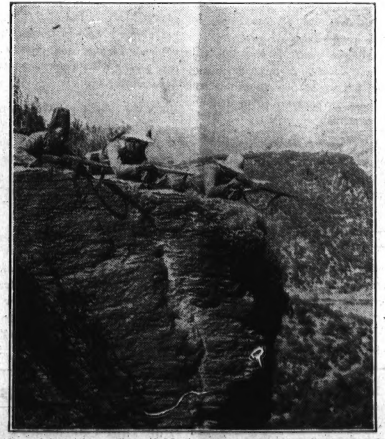

Sir Edward Peacock, native of Glangarry county, Ont., and widely known in London financial circles, presided at the meeting.

The progress of Canada during the last year "has been steady and unbroken," said Massey. "Nearly all the important indices of economic activity, such as bank clearings, exports, car loadings, the use of electrical power, custom revenues, contracts for construction—all these indicate uniform improvement."

Will Retain Post

Saskatoon, Sask.—Dean A. M. Shaw of the College of Agriculture will not leave the University of Saskatchewan, President Walter C. Murray announced. He will be given leave of absence and may be away from his college eight or ten months. No substitute is being appointed. The dean is a recognized authority on economics and agricultural research.

ITALIANS FIND ETHIOPIAN COUNTRY TRYING

Our picture shows General Montague's blackshirts holding one of the outposts at Amba Bad-Palase, near Addis Ababa, and gives a good idea of the type of country the Italians have to advance through in order to reach Ethiopian armies. Sometimes the Italians are not so fortunate as to capture a commanding position as that shown above, and then the shoe is on the other foot and the Ethiopians fire down on the advancing blackshirts.

To Assist Agriculture

Better Prices For Farm Products Are Necessary

Toronto.—Delegates to the United Farmers of Ontario convention were told of advances made by the organization in membership and financial position but at the same time were warned that if relief in the agriculture field was to be found it must come through adjustment of production to profitable demand.

President R. J. Scott issued the warning of the precarious position of the farmer after Secretary-Treasurer H. H. Hagan's report had noted increased membership and an improved financial situation. Mr. Scott maintained the economic life of agriculture was endangered and it must blaze new trails.

Before better days appeared farm product prices had to be raised until they reach what the president described as a just relationship to other commodity prices.

Failed To Salute Flag

Toronto Men In Germany Assailed By Nazi Storm Troopers

Toronto.—In a despatch from London the Toronto Daily Star says two young Toronto men were assaulted by storm troopers in Berlin recently, one of their assailants explaining they should have saluted the Nazi flag.

The two are Alfred Birney, who graduated from University of British Columbia and holds an M.A. from University of Toronto, and Kenneth Johnston, 26. Birney's mother lives in Vancouver.

Johnstone said their assailants dispersed when it was realized the young men were foreigners. Police took the Toronto men to a police station and apologized.

Shuns Publicity

Dr. Allan Ray Dafee In Britain's Who's Who Of 1936

New York.—Dr. Allan Ray Dafee, who came into world renown along with the Dionne quintuplets of Calander, Ont., "crashed" Great Britain's Who's Who of 1936, published recently, but the insertion was in keeping with his modesty.

He recorded himself as "Practice of medicine as a general practitioner since 1907; in charge of the Dionne quintuplets from their birth."

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIRMAIL SERVICE PLANS PENDING

Washington.—Postmaster-General James Farley said he will ask the coming session of the United States congress for funds to start trans-Atlantic airmail service.

He said experimental flights will be started next summer, and the route probably will be in operation within the following year.

At the same time, a delegation of British, Irish and Canadian postal and aeronautical officials arrived in Washington for conferences with the inter-departmental committee on civil international aviation. This group consists of half a dozen federal officials who are charged with co-ordinating matters pertaining to flights between this and other countries.

Postal officials said Pan American Airways, which operate the new trans-Pacific route is the only American company interested in the route now.

Farley said four foreign aviation interests had conferred with postal officials on the question of co-operating in a trans-Atlantic service. These included the Royal Dutch Airlines, the Lufthansa German route, a British promoter and an informal French mission. A second British group, representing the Imperial Airways, was in the capital and the French mission was expected to return later in the year with more definite proposals.

Harlee Branch, second assistant postmaster general in charge of air mail, said the southern route by way of Bermuda and the Azores to southern Europe, was being favored at present.

Although many aviation experts prefer the shorter northern route from Nova Scotia to Northern Ireland, Branch said, most experts agreed "you can't fly the year around on the northern route, at least for several years."

Farley said any air mail contract for trans-Atlantic service would have to go to an American company, using American equipment and an American crew.

RAILWAY MEN SEEK INQUIRY ON UNEMPLOYMENT

Ottawa.—Establishment of scientific machinery to discover primary causes for unemployment and prevailing economic and industrial conditions was urged by a delegation from the Canadian Railway Transportation Brotherhood which presented a nine-point legislative program to the federal government.

Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of railways, and Finance Minister Dunning promised the submission would be given consideration.

It was the annual presentation of legislative proposals from the Brotherhoods of Railway Conductors, Trainmen, Telegraphers, Engineers, Firemen and Enginemen and Maintenance of Way employees. The deputations, which originally had planned to interview Prime Minister King, was received in private.

Chief submissions of the deputations urged:

1. Amendments to the British North America Act to restrict the veto powers of the senate, broaden the scope of legislative competence of the federal parliament empowering it to enact social legislation of general interest and welfare, and if necessary, to deal effectively with the regulation of highway transport.

2. Amendment to the old age pension act reducing the qualification as from 70 to 65 years with the Dominion to pay 90 per cent. of the total costs.

3. Opposition to deepening the St. Lawrence waterways for transportation purposes.

4. Charging of "adequate tolls" for all commercial transport services through canals.

5. National control of motor vehicle transport by a central commission, such as the Dominion board of railway commissioners.

6. Amendment to the income tax act to provide $400 exemption for all dependent children irrespective of age.

7. Setting up of scientific machinery in an effort to discover primary causes for unemployment and prevailing economic and industrial conditions; continuation of Dominion relief assistance and promotion of program of necessary public works.

8. Representation for labor on public boards and commissions.

9. Amendments to railway act by increasing the grade crossing fund, providing compensation to railway employees for loss of property and minor changes such as providing locomotives should be manned by at least two men.

Former Trade Minister

Hon. James Malcolm Dies At His Home In Kincardine

Kincardine, Ont.—Hon. James Malcolm, minister of trade and commerce from 1926 to 1930 in the former King government, died at his home here. He was 55 years old.

Mr. Malcolm declined to take any active part in the last federal election campaign owing to ill health with which he had been troubled since his youth. As recently as several weeks ago he was mentioned by political observers as a possible choice for the post of Canadian ambassador to Washington.

His death, according to reports, was unexpected. He had been living a life of retirement and his health until comparatively recently seemed improved.

Mr. Malcolm was born at Kincardine in July, 1880. He represented Bruce North in the House of Commons. Surviving are his widow and a sister, Mrs. A. T. Clarke of Ottawa.

Warships On Cruise

Two British Cruisers Steam Out Of Gibraltar Harbor

Gibraltar.—The battle cruisers Hood and Renown, two of the most powerful warships in the world, accompanied by four destroyers, steamed out of Gibraltar harbor and into the Atlantic ocean on a "sea-conditioning" cruise.

Authoritative sources in London said their departure from Mediterranean waters had no connection with diplomatic moves to halt the Italo-Ethiopian conflict. But informed observers considered it noteworthy that the move was made at a time when Britain and France was redoubling their efforts to evolve a peaceful solution of the controversy.

It Duce, it was recalled, weeks ago demanded withdrawal of some of Britain's home fleet units from the Mediterranean in exchange for withdrawal of a division of Italian troops from the Libyan-Egyptian border.
